AMENDMENT

Sir:

In response to the Office Action dated March 12, 2007 (a Petition for a three-month extension of time being enclosed), please amend the above-referenced application as follows:

In the Claims:

Amend claim 13 and add claim 18.

1-12 (Canceled).

13. (Currently amended). An exercising machine comprising a frame; at least one operating apparatus for performing a physical exercise; at least one load group supported by the frame; at least one cable for connecting the at least one load group with the at least one operating apparatus; a plurality of transmission members supported by the frame and defining a path of the cable, the operating apparatus being displaceable between two consecutive transmission members to a desired position, the cable path including at least one exercising section defined by the two consecutive transmission members, the two consecutive transmission members being supported by the frame at respective fixed positions for rotation about respective axes extending transverse to respective pivot axes of the two consecutive transmission members to provide for rotational movement of the at least one exercising section about the transverse axes, wherein the operating apparatus comprises a handle connected with at least one cable and fitted in a freely slidable manner thereon for accommodating user's work-out requirements.

14. (Previously presented). An exercising machine as claimed in claim 13, wherein the at least one exercising section is oriented in a vertical direction.

15. (Previously presented). An exercising machine as claimed in claim 13, wherein the at least one exercising section is oriented in a horizontal direction.

16. (Previously presented). An exercising machine as claimed in claim 14, further comprising at least one further exercising section oriented in a horizontal direction.

17. (Previously presented). An exercising machine as claimed in claim 13, wherein the at least one load group comprises at least one load unit having adjustable load values.

18. (New). An exercising machine as claimed in claim 13, comprising a plurality of load groups supported by the frame; a respective plurality of cables for connecting respective load groups with respective operating apparatuses, wherein each operating apparatus comprises a handle connected with a respective cable and fitted in a freely slidable manner thereon.

REMARKS:

The present amendment amends claim 13 and adds claim 18.

Reconsideration of the application in view of the present amendment is respectfully requested.

Based on the foregoing amendments and the following remarks the application is deemed to be in condition for allowance and action to that end is respectfully requested.

Claims 13-17 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being anticipated by Vittone et al., U.S. Patent No. 5,928,117 (Vittone). It is respectfully submitted that claim 13, as amended, and claims 14-18, dependent on claim 13, are patentable over Vittone.

Specifically, claim 13 now recites that the operating apparatus comprises a handle connected with at least one cable and fitted in a freely slidable manner thereon for accommodating user's work-out requirements.

As explained in the specification, fitting of the handle on the cable in a freely slidable manner permits the user to take hold of the handle in the lowered rest position and move it spontaneously to a height which feels physiologically most comfortable, i.e., the position of the handle would define “a cable working area” the user is comfortable with. And this without any pre-stress on the limbs of the user due to the cable pretension. The absence of any ties, which condition the choice of the user on where to place the handle along the cable avoids traction pre-stress on the cable before the beginning of the workout and allows the user to vary the position of the handle on the cable at any moment during the progress of the exercise.

No such handle is disclosed in Vittone. Vittone discloses an inner frame (31; 100) supported by several cables within an outer frame and movable by the user. Clearly, Vittone discloses a completely different type of exercising machine.

Vittone does not disclose an exercising machine as claimed. Since Vittone fails to disclose each and every feature of independent Claim 13, Vittone, as a matter of law, does not anticipate the present invention, as defined by said independent claim.

In view of the above, it is respectfully submitted that Vittone does not anticipate or make obvious the present invention as defined in Claim 13, and the present invention is patentable over Vittone.

Claims 14 – 18 depend on claim 13 and are allowable as being dependent on an allowable subject matter.

CONCLUSION

In view of the foregoing, it is respectfully submitted that the application is in condition for allowance, and allowance of the application is respectfully requested.

Should the Examiner require or consider it advisable that the specification, claims and/or drawings be further amended or corrected in formal respects in order to place the case in condition for final allowance, it is respectfully requested that such amendment or correction be carried out by Examiner's Amendment and the case passed to issue. Alternatively, should the Examiner feel that a personal discussion might be helpful in advancing this case to allowance, the Examiner is invited to telephone the undersigned.

Applicant's election of Group 2 in the reply filed on dated 11/13/06 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 13-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vittone et al.

Vittone et al discloses a device comprising: an exercising frame an operating apparatus (fig. 7 element 120) a load group (160) a plurality of transmission members in the form of pulley's, a cable trained over said pulley's, the cable path including a exercising section defined by consecutive transmission members and said consecutive transmission members provide rotational movement of at least on exercising section about the transverse axis.

Vittone et al discloses the pulley/transmission members as being pivotally and (transversely) rotatably mounted to the frame.

In regard to claims 14-16 the interpretes sections of the cable (33) as exercising sections. In light of this interpretation Vittone et al discloses several sections of his device, which are positioned horizontally and vertically.

In regard to claim 17 Vittone et al discloses a load group in the form of weight plates where weight may by added and subtracted to obtain adjustable load values.
